REPORT

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY: ETHICS IN ACADEMIC WRITING

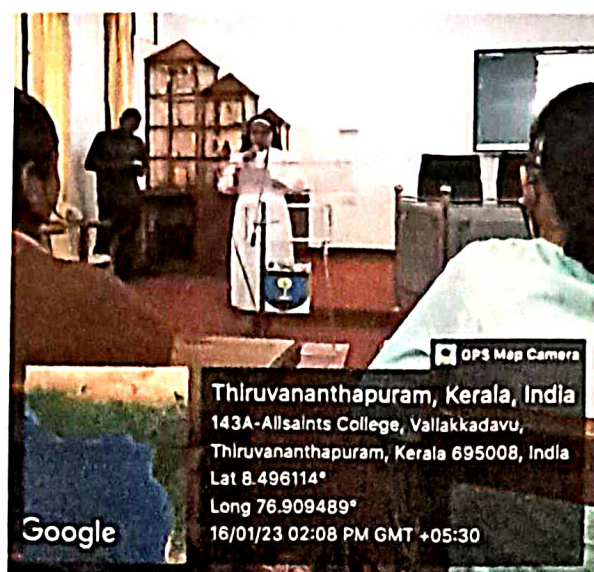

The outcome of the event: To disseminate knowledge on research methodology and ethical implications behind academic writing.

A Seminar on Research Methodology was organized by the Department of Library All Saints' College, Thiruvananthapuram, on 16th January 2023, in the Audio Visual Room from 2:00 pm to 3:30 pm. The seminar was intended to disseminate knowledge on research methodology and ethical implications behind academic writing.

The session was handled by Dr.Gopakumar V, Head of Knowledge Centre, Digital University Kerala, who provided an overall idea about the research process, from formulating the research problem to the literature survey and report writing. Sister Nancy Waral L, Head of the Department of Library, delivered the welcome address. The participants were postgraduate students of the college belonging to diverse disciplines, including Physics, Commerce, English and Environmental science.

Welcome Address

The main themes discussed during the session were literature search and use, some ethical issues associated with academic writing, and referencing with Mendeley. The speaker introduced literature search and use as one of the essential skills in research methodology. He emphasized a literature survey and making a reading list to shorten the spectrum of relevant topics required for the research rather than wasting time browsing through the vast sea of information. The speaker also discussed ethical issues related to academic writing.

Introducing the topic

Plagiarism is unethical conduct involving stealing and benefiting someone else's intellectual property and violating the principle of academic integrity. Thus proper citations and bibliography is of immense importance in report writing.

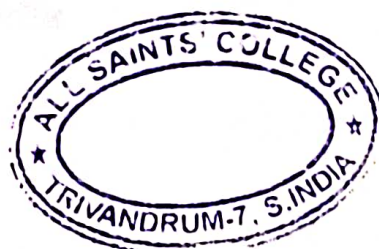

The speaker also introduced web discovery tools that help users to connect with the information they seek. Every knowledge sought is available at one place and helps to provide quick results ranked by relevancy. The different styles of citation like APA and MLA was also talked about.

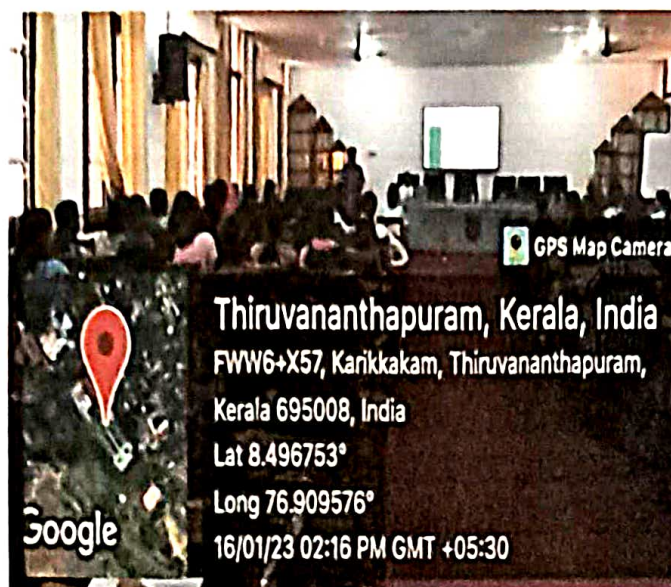

Lecture on Plagiarism

Method of referencing using Mendeley software was carried out with assistance from Sister Nancy Waral. Installation of Mendely, building a library on Mendely desktop and citations and bibliography added to MS Word was shown. Students were given live examples of using the reference software. This was a welcome move for all postgraduate students who had to work on their final year project.

The topic of information literacy was addressed. Where and how to gather information, evaluate the data and the need to use it ethically were discussed.

Demonstration on Mendely software.

The session concluded by reiterating the need to approach research ethically. Niranja, PG First Year of the Department of English, proposed the vote of thanks.

The workshop helped orient students to proceed with their research scientifically and systematically. The workshop also helped motivate students to research to further their academic pursuits, ensuring that research is conducted ethically. The seminar was a rich experience for participants and helped address the need for practicing proper research conduct.
